Youth Courts: Creating Alternatives in Juvenile Justice

The California Association of Youth Courts (CAYC), in collaboration with the Judicial Council of California (JCC), Center for Families, Children & the Courts (CFCC), is hosting an all day roundtable on creating a youth court. This roundtable is the third in a series of regional roundtables that highlight promising practices in youth courts and is open to all interested court staff, and justice and community partners. The roundtable will be held on Thursday, April 30, 2015, 10:30 am – 3:00 pm at the University of California, 5200 N. Lake Road, Merced, Crescent Arch (Half Dome 180).

These roundtables help provide support for local courts and communities to develop effective and efficient models that address issues related to youth in a non-adversarial approach that results in better outcomes for youth. Youth courts provide an alternative approach to the traditional juvenile justice system for first-time, non-violent offenders.

If you are interested in learning more about youth courts, or you are interested in starting a youth court in your jurisdiction, please mark your calendars.

This roundtable is made possible by the California Association of Youth Courts and the Center for Families, Children & the Courts. The opinions and views expressed at the roundtable do not necessarily represent the views of the CAYC or the CFCC.
